Writing a Compelling Job Advert We've all seen them – boring, generic job adverts that are little more than a glorified job description copied and pasted to a popular job board. They may be a quick and easy route to advertising your vacancy to the masses, but are they effective? No. In the war for talent, you may find they do more to turn potential candidates away from your job role than they do to attract them. Fortunately, there is a better way. Compelling, well written, job adverts are a great way to have a meaningful impact on potential candidates, leading to more relevant, high quality applicants for your vacancies. Click to book and find out more	07.08.2018	£9.95	Book
What Makes a Successful Interview? In an ever-increasingly competitive labour market, organisations cannot rest on their laurels when it comes to recruitment and selection. Making the right decisions when it comes to hiring talent has never been more prevalent, therefore it is important that organisations have robust interview processes in place. Join us for an interactive, half-day workshop regardless of your level of experience when it comes to conducting interviews. This has been designed to develop your knowledge and skills of interviews, but also focusing on the bigger picture in terms of contemporary trends and the impact on company image and reputation in relation to interviews. Click to book and find out more	15.08.2018	£60.00	Book
